[[@pone.0181883.ref016]]. * (B) * The m⁶A RNA modification predominantly occurs in stop codons [[@pone.0181883.ref011]]. The m⁶A modification at the stop codons can prevent the termination translation at the stop codon [[@pone.0181883.ref017]]. * (C) * miR-BART20-5p can target the m⁶A modification at the stop codons and can facilitate the expression of the viral proteins.](pone.0181883.g003){#pone.0181883.g003} In conclusion, using genome-wide m⁶A-IPseq, we identified that m⁶A can be globally regulated in the JS-PC-1 cells. The upregulation of m⁶A in PA28γ knockout cells may be due to the decrease in the m⁶A RNA methylation. Furthermore, the increase in the m⁶A modification can assist the function of miR-BART20-5p, which can target the m⁶A modification at the stop codons. This study may provide more insights into the regulation of m⁶A and the functional role of m⁶A in the viral infection. Supporting information {#sec014} ===== 50b96ab0b6
